A Song of Genuine Joy

On the topmost branch of a swaying elm a pretty wild bird was pouring forth a wonderful song this morning.

Say, you ought to have heard it! Patti at her best had nothing on those bird notes for purity of tone, and the beauty of the bird-song was that it was entirely spontaneous. There were no $5 admission fees, and no press agents.

That bird must have had its lot of bird troubles—fear of hawks and owls and Floberts; maybe, also, fear of a scarcity of bugs and worms.

But you'd never suspect it from its song. That was the most whole-souled outpouring of bird joy we ever listened to. It seemed as if its little throat would split with melody.

Perhaps there's a pointer for us in this little incident.

Perhaps we humans nurse our troubles too much, and don't give the music within us a fair chance.

How about it, fellows? Ready to tune up?

Junior Excursion

By far the most elaborate and best executed reception ever given at Taylor in honor of the Academy Seniors was pulled off last Saturday evening in the music hall, by the Academy Juniors. We will always remember this reception as the Junior Excursion and may the Juniors of years to come give to the graduates the royal entertainment that was extended to the '14 class.

The Junior excursion was an affair that required the whole of the music hall for its setting, and even the College Seniors had to be entertained in the Administration building, for every room from chapel to the gymnasium was occupied with some part of this novel entertainment.

To describe the trip we might say that long before the Seniors had all arrived on the west steps of the music hall, as per arrangement, we heard the loud voice of a train caller (Joseph Imler) from within the building and as we listened we became nervous for fear that our train would be called and some of our number who were late would be left. Some people are always late to a train, you know. But as this was a special the managers were kind enough to hold it and at eight ten we were off with Mr. Robert Morris's "All aboard!"

We traveled during the entire trip over the Pennsylvania Lines

(in at the west entrance of the hall, thence out the north and thence around the walk to the west entrance again) whilst the conductor kindly pointed out the places of interest.

But to begin. Mr. Miller Harding with smiling face, supplied us with tickets and refused pay for the same. This was the Upland Union Depot and we at once proceeded to the gates where Miles Perry looked over our tickets and gave directions. All around was the hustle of a large station. Charles Blooah yelling papers with his mighty voice, together with the baggage men and employees threw us into a great fright, but we were soon in our train and speeding for Chicago. And we went some too for in less than five minutes we were at the museum of this metropolis of the west. It was while here that Albert Davis tried to steal a gold brick from the museum and was at once arrested by Joseph Coulter, the guard, who bore proudly over his shoulder a musket of ancient make. Guide Imler gave some very valuable information on old relics. From Chicago we were taken to New York and Ellis Island, via Penn. Lines as before stated. Our visit to Ellis Island, the port of foreigners, was by far the most interesting part of the evening. It seemed true to life to see Paul Yull, Miss Stone and Joe Coulter, Mr. Griffith and Miss Stephens and Mr. Eckblad trying to get through the portals of the nation. Mr. Eckblad was turned away because he could not talk English. Paul Yull from Italy with his stock in trade in his jeans, others from Germany and Ireland fittingly costumed made a realistic scene and we wished to see more. C. C. Fruth was an A1 official at the gates. From New York we traveled to Washington where we had the privilege of stop over and were invited to visit a session of the cabinet. These gentlemen in the course of their business were interrupted by suffragettes. Miss Householder and Miss Stone ably presented the cause but Pres. McNulty and cabinet excepting Hon. Coulter who made a thrilling speech of approval seemed indifferent to women's rights. Hon. H. Griffith of England was especially vehement in his remarks. But we were hurried away from this interesting scene to the smoky city of Pittsburg where we visited the zoo. Many wild animals that we never had the privilege of seeing before were there — the American ground hog (sausage), the great red bat (brick bat) and the laughing hyena (ask the Seniors). Thence on to Columbus and a visit to the state prison, where Joe Coulter was executed under a shower bath for having killed his wife's mother's pet cat. And then home again. An adv. at the bottom of our tickets "Do not fail to visit the lunch counter" "Special attention paid to Seniors" was gladly obeyed and such "eats" you never saw. After this event it was good night and many thanks and good wishes to the class of 1915.

—B. R. P.

Junior Reception

On last Saturday evening the College Juniors entertained the College Seniors in a most delightful manner. When the Seniors arrived at seven-thirty, appropriately robed in caps and gowns, they were met at the foot of the stairs by a number of the Juniors and directed to the Oratory Room, which was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants. The early part of the evening was spent informally. As special part of the evening's entertainment was the effort made to take the starch out of the dignified Seniors, especially our honored president, R. I. Stone. A short program was rendered which N. A. Christensen, president of the Juniors, opened by an address of welcome in his own delightful way. R. I. Stone replied on behalf of the Seniors in his earnest stirring style, after which a short program of musical and literary numbers was rendered. Refreshments were then served and after the company had washed their hands in a dainty (?) finger bowl passed around by Mr. Illick and Miss Talbot, the company departed well pleased with the evening's enjoyment.

—A Senior

The Academy Seniors

We are glad for the announcement we are to make for the Academic Class this year. We have no hesitation, and yet we believe no undue desire to praise in submitting this tribute of commendation. For, through the years of association with, and consequential observation of their lives, we have felt our first impression deepening into a conviction that in these lives lie the hopes of thousands and the blessing of future generations.

From the shelter of these hallowed walls, there step forth this spring, twenty-four young men and women who have we believe as red a blood, as firm a fiber and as steady a faith as any class the Academy has yet graduated. Furthermore, we believe there are few High Schools or Academies in the land, size or status notwithstanding, which out of a class of similar size, give to the world so many with a definite and resolute purpose. Needless to say the majority are preparing to labor for souls. Nine are preparing for the ministry, four of whom are now actively serving appointments. Six others will devote their lives to the Home and Foreign Mission field. Others still will follow the professions of Medicine, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering, and Domestic Science. One doubtless will become the sheriff of Rockbridge Co., Va.

The observant will at Taylor note a variety characteristic. It is not wholly wanting in the class of which we speak. Coupled with the above diversity of purpose, there is a varied nationality, language, color, size, age, and religion. Young men, middle aged, married and single. Ladies ditto with class two excepted. Keystoners, Buckeyes, Hawkeyes, and Hoosiers. From the treeless plains of North Dakota, to the evergreen glades of Barbadoes and Cuba. In religion, Methodists, Baptists, Christians and United Brethren. But amidst all this outward diversity, there is experienced and felt within a unity which time or world wide separation cannot dissolve. Kindled by the love of the Savior of men, there glows now a Christain love in our individual hearts, common in degree to the fairest Caucasion, and the blackest West Indian with the whitest heart. Oneness of spirit with each brother and sister and sympathy and prayers for such as know Him not.

The Class exercises will be given on the sixteenth of June. At that day we will trust to see you all, and bid you an affectionate farewell.

Our Motto: "Only Virtue Ennobles."

Our Colors: Green and White.

Our Flower: The White Rose.

—J. R. G.

College Freshmen Have a Picnic

On the 23rd of last month, the jolly Freshmen had the best time of the whole year. Fifteen of them, with Mrs. Vickery for chaperon, started toward the river about eleven o'clock in the forenoon with light spirits and their rousing yell:

Osky—wow—wow,

Skinny—wow—wow,

Freshmen, Freshmen,

Wo—————w.

For the most part, they were dressed in white, and each person had something to carry. On the way out, Bob Williams so far forgot himself as to squeeze the bag of eggs he was carrying and broke one of them on his coat. This aroused Miss Regester considerably and she wouldn't trust him to carry them any longer.

The river was very quickly reached, a fire built, and the coffee and eggs put on to boil. Mr. Vickery, as he was the only married man with us, tended the fire, while the class Cook(e) gave helpful suggestions concerning the length of time for boiling, etc. President Paul Brown and Mr. Hanson seemed very much interested in this too(?).

Soon the table was spread on the shady green bank of the peaceful Mississinnewa, and they hungrily devoured the hearty dinner of sandwiches and coffee, boiled eggs, pickles, olives, cookies, and last and best of all cake and ice cream.

The first part of the afternoon some of the boys went up the river a short distance and had a swim. T. P. Lee and Hanson remained as guardians to the ladies, who of course chatted, joked, and laughed as only Freshmen could. Miss Graves was one of the chief wits. Later they all went down to Johnson's Ford, which was a much pleasanter spot. Here, they played a few games, Bob acted dead man for a while, Miss Young fell in the ditch, Miss Hultz and Miss Bouse rested, while the rest did what the others were doing.

After finishing the "eats," they returned leisurely toward the College. Of course the Pres. and Secretary brought up the rear. "Aunt Emily" took several pictures during the day, and their Dr. Godby added wit and dignity to the whole day's procedure. Six o'clock found them back at the starting point. Several of the fair sex sustained sunburns but all testified to a corkin' good time.

Inter-Club Debate

One inter-club debate between the Eulogonian and Eureka debating clubs each term has become a well-stipulated fixture. This debate for the spring term of this year formed the center of attention on the Philalthean program, Friday evening, May 29. The question discussed was, "Resolved, that the power of the federal government should be paramount to that of the states in the conservation of the natural resources," the Eulogonians having the affirmative and the Eureka the negative. First on the debate came B. R. Oppen with his convincing proofs, cold, hard, incontrovertible facts. Then A. C. Lee, calm and self-possessed, followed with a speech that showed great preparation and commendable skill. However the man of the evening was found in J. C. Eason, second affirmative speaker. Dispensing with theory, he literally beriddled the work of his opponent, and presented such an abundance of those irrefragable proofs, cold, hard, pertinent facts, that all seemed secure. But Joseph Imbler at this time stemmed this adverse tide with commendable skill and A. C. Lee came also to the rescue in his rebuttal, and, pricked by the thrusts in the fray arose to the occasion, and in the grandiloquent climactic utterance, "They should take a feather from the wings of their imagination and stick it in the tail of their judgment" seemed to turn the tide again. Then came the final rebuttal, clear, concise, and pertinent, by B. R. Oppen.

Thus the debate, interspersed with great and continual applause, and enlivened by the frequent ejaculations of sympathizers came to a close conclusion, so that the well-known personage, "Who Won," seemed sicklied o'er with a pale cast of thought. But some one must be defeated.

The final word came, "The decision is in favor of the affirmative." This decision was by a vote of 3 to 0 and ended the debates for the year by a score of 3 to 0. This makes the ninth victory out of the last twelve debates and leaves the championship banner still in the safe keeping of the Eulogonians.

—A Eulogonian.

Taylor Echoes

The atmosphere about T. U. is well freighted with the musical echoes of the vocal and oratorical contestants and with the awful anticipations of final exams.

Mr. Miller and family have just hailed from Florida where they have been for the past winter. They had formerly been in connection with I. H. U. at Olivet, Ill. Miss Miller, the daughter, is an accomplished musician. She will be enrolled as college freshman next scholastic year. We are glad to have Brother Miller and his family with us at T. U.

The water system is a success. Though not completely finished yet, it is in good use as far as it has gone.

Dr. Vayhinger and the male quartet attended the state Prohibition Party Convention at Indianapolis, June 1—3. The quartet furnished the music for the convention.

Rev. B. F. Hornaday and Roy S. Brown's father on their way to the Prohi. Convention at Indianapolis stopped and took Roy with them. They were making the trip in an auto.

Miss Margaret Greywatch's sister from Chicago visited with her over Sunday, May 31.

O. C. Brown from Greenfield, Ind. where he is in charge of a piano store for the Claypool Co., was visiting with his parents May 29—31.

Mrs. Brewer, a well known evangelist of Indiana Methodism is assisting H. A. Kirk in a meeting on his charge in Muncie. A hard battle is reported, but God is giving victory. The meeting will close June 7. To keep his work up both in the meeting and in school is giving Mr. Kirk something to do.

J. M. Hernandez is contemplating a visit to T. U. during commencement week. He takes his A. B. at Ohio Wesleyan this year, June 10.

Bro. J. T. Ishii, one of our Japanese students, spoke at the Geo. St. Baptist Church, Marion, of which Ward W. Long is acting pastor, on Sunday, May 31. In the evening Mr. Ishii gave a most thrilling lecture, two hours in length, on Japan and his personal experiences. The house was "packed" and the audience listened as if spellbound till the last word was said. If anyone should desire to employ an able, forceful and spiritual speaker on missionary work, who knows his subject matter first hand and who knows how to present it in an intelligible manner, he would not be disappointed in securing Mr. Ishii.

In these closing up days of school, when nature is so tempting, we need to buckle up the harness a notch tighter, and brace into the collar a little stiffer, in order not to be overcome by the inclination to slow up, and taper off our intellectual excellence to the vanishing point. Only live fish swim up stream, and there are several rapids yet to asced before we reach the placid waters of vacation time.

At present writing Dr. Ridout is in the East in the interest of Taylor. Dr. Ridout makes a fine impression wherever he goes and brings things to pass.

Important Corrections

In our last issue two regrettable errors occurred. The closing words of the item relative to Dr. Fitch of Columbus, were meant to have read as follows: Through the advice of Borden P. Bowne, who it may be added is perhaps the greatest philosopher and metaphysician in the history of Methodism.

In the item following, the word Chicago should be substituted for the word Columbus.

Arthur Ayres Again

The many friends of Arthur Ayres will be glad to learn that he has been chosen Professor of Biology and General Science in the Oakland, Calif., High School at a salary of at least $1500.00. The acceptance of said position does not prevent him from pursuing his post-graduate work at Berkeley.

Jabs and Jests

Method often beats genius in the race for success.

Helping nobody to get ahead is what keeps each other from getting up.

Only those who hold on tightly are the ones who win—start, but don't back out.

If God took words for deeds, Heaven would be full and the Devil would close up shop.

Some men lose their health while acquiring wealth, then lose their wealth trying to acquire health.

Even if you don't like the work you are at present engaged in, do it well. You never can tell but that it may be the opening to your true vocation.

This world is not a very fine place for a good many of the people in it. But I've made up my mind it sha'n't be the worse for me if I can help it.

A certain man who was wanted for some crime in Russia, had been photographed in six different positions, and the pictures were circulated among the police departments. A few days afterwards the chief of police reported as follows; "I have received the portraits of the six miscreants whose capture is desired. I have arrested five of them and the sixth is under observation and will be taken shortly."

A certain lady's husband was seized with a fit and became rigid and unconscious. She sent for the doctor who looked the man over and said: "Madam, your husband is dead." Just then the husband came to, and said; "No, I am not." "Shut up," said the wife, "Don't the doctor know?"

Many a man who is unable to do the things he would is too lazy to do the things he could.

The Spice of Life

In Oratory Class—Lois, what do you find in Browning?

Lois—Many pauses, and much depth of thought, and very hard to understand.

Daughter—Father, I need a new riding habit.

Father—Can't afford it, my dear, times are too hard.

Daughter—But father, what shall I do without a riding habit?

Father—Get the walking habit.

Man on the bridge watching the angler; "I've been watching that fellow fishing for two hours and he hasn't caught a thing. Its strange how some people waste their time."

In a trolley car: "Pardon me madam, but you're standing on my feet."

"Well, if you were anything of a gentleman you'd be standing on them yourself."

"Here's something queer," said the dentist, "you say this tooth has never been worked on before, and yet I find flakes of gold on my instrument."

Victim: "I think you have struck my back collar button."

Inventor—This machine of mine can do the work of ten men.

Visitor—My wife ought to have married it.

Science Professor—You see when a man loses one of his senses, another becomes more developed; for instance a blind man's hearing.

Student—Yes sir, I've noticed that myself; when a man has one short leg, the other is a bit longer.
